Los Angeles, CA (prHWY.com) July 19, 2010 - Consumers who purchased (for personal use) a Mega-T brand weight loss product could get up to $60.00 or more back. The makers of the Mega-T dietary supplements have set aside a $2.5 million Common Fund to settle the Class Action Lawsuit, Denise Wally, et al. v. CCA Industries, Inc. Case No. BC422833.

This is a legal notice authorized by Los Angeles Superior Court in an attempt to contact anyone who purchased (for personal use) any of the following Mega-T dietary supplements: Mega-T Ultra, Mega-T Plus, Mega-T Effervescent, Mega-T Green Tea Dietary Supplement and/or Mega-T Dietary Supplement.

If you are a consumer who purchased any of these supplements between Sept 29, 2005 to June 9, 2010, who lives in the United States, the makers of that line of supplements (CCA Industries, Inc) has set aside $2,500,000.00 Common Fund to settle this action.

More details can be seen at: www.Mega-Tsettlement.com

The lawsuit was officially brought by Denise Wally, et al. and claims that CCA Industries, Inc. ("CCA") made improper statements in its labeling and advertising of the Mega-T Ultra, Mega-T Plus, Mega-T Effervescent, Mega-T Green Tea Dietary Supplement and/or Mega-T Dietary Supplement products.

This legal settlement does not mean that CCA did anything wrong. In fact, CCA has denied any wrongdoing whatsoever, and is settling the case only to avoid the expense and inconvenience of further legal action.
